CÔTE D'IVOIRE LAND OF RESOURCES

The African continent plays a significant role in the extractive resources sector, in the production of certain critical minerals, and its influence is expected to expand in the coming years.

Côte d'Ivoire has huge potential in the mining, oil and energy sectors. Its large mineral reserves make the country an attractive place to explore and exploit, as evidenced by the very recent discovery of a major world-class gold deposit in the north-west of the country. Its appealing mining code and commitment to responsible mining are attracting a growing number of investors.

Côte d'Ivoire also possesses a sedimentary basin rich in oil and gas resources. The start-up of the Baleine field and the recent discovery of the Calao field have strengthened its position on the world stage.

The country is poised to make a real success of its energy revolution. Public-private partnerships are being encouraged to ensure universal access to electricity and the transition to renewable energies.

A TRADE FAIR TO DRIVE AMBITION

Today, Côte d'Ivoire is at the dawn of a major economic transformation. Under the leadership of His Excellency Alassane OUATTARA, President of the Republic of Côte d'Ivoire, the country aims to make the mining, oil and energy sectors the new spearhead of its growth.

Under the leadership of Mr Mamadou SANGAFOWA - COULIBALY, Minister of Mines, Petroleum and Energy, the country has initiated an integrated national policy for its mining and energy resources, taking into account their respective potential and synergies.

It is indeed in this context that the first edition of SIREXE, the International Exhibition of Extractive and Energy Resources, will be held. The event takes place every 2 years, and is intended to become the key platform of exchange and collaboration for all those involved in mining, hydrocarbons and energy in Africa and around the world.

It will enable companies, investors and political decision-makers to meet, share experiences and forge new South-South and North-South partnerships.
